One of the nation's leading value-based training seminars on Personal Leadership that participants will find career enhancing, personally rewarding and professionally developing.

➤ COURSE DESCRIPTION

One of the greatest training needs currently facing the public safety and criminal justice professions is the need for sound and effective leadership training that promotes transparency, doing the right, the noble and the constitutional thing. Regardless of ones rank and or experience, “Leading behind the Badge” is an essential training course for those who wear the badge. This training addresses the personal leadership development of the person behind the badge. It is often said that, “everything rises and falls on leadership”. “It is a well-known and established fact “you cannot lead others until you can lead yourself.” Much of today's leadership training focuses on the ability and proficiency of one's profession and often ignores the benefits of developing sound personal leadership in our personnel which serve as the foundation on which to build cohesiveness within an organization and enhance other professional development. This training is intense, fast-paced, experience-based and gets right to the heart of real-life issues faced in public safety and criminal justice.

Today's public safety and criminal justice agencies need strong leaders at every level of the organization. To meet the demands currently placed on those who serve and protect, leadership must be fostered at every level of the organization and all employees sworn and civilian should be encouraged to act as leaders.

“Leading Behind the Badge” is about sound human resource development that provides the “winning edge” in employee, staff and organizational development.

➤ COURSE OBJECTIVE

Public safety and criminal justice professionals encounter, on a daily basis, a myriad of society's most difficult and demanding challenges. The sound leadership principles and skills taught in this training will provide new, current and future leaders at all levels with a foundation that will allow them to immediately transfer these principles and skills to real-life challenges that they will encounter in both their personal and professional lives.
